In the words of the Beatles

Here comes the sun, doo-dun-doo-doo

Here comes the sun, and I say

It's all right

Summer is returning and would this be the start of the first real chinks of light falling on our beleaguered hospitality industry? A reduction to 1 metre distancing would certainly help the economic factors in operating many establishments. How long until you can be seated later than 10:30 or have a drink without eating? Safety first was right and has helped Jersey with numbers better than most hoped or predicted but slowing an economic recovery by a lack of urgency, in underestimating in the economic pain being felt by business, would not be right either.

Chamber is supportive of the safe movement back to economic recovery and calling on our Government to make the positive steps forward to avoid further financial difficulties.

Sunny, yesterday my life was filled with rain

Sunny, you smiled at me and really eased the pain

The Fisheries Support Scheme will provide financial assistance in June and July to help the industry continue to pay fixed costs, and prepare for recovery, while the hospitality sector and export market are both closed.
