Monday 10th August 2020.

Evening Pop-Pickers, I'm back in the office after a little break the sun and high time for a brief update from me, rounding up the action of the last week with a few suggested tunes to lighten the load. Much has changed... Although Broad Street remains closed... which is all rather confusing.

It wasn't me - Shaggy

Chamber has been asking questions since mid-June as to why it remains closed. Deputy Kevin Lewis, Minister for the Environment says it's on health advice, the Health Minister, in a letter to us, says "I cannot recall being personally approached to give my views on the closure of Broad Street. I don't believe I have given any view either way as I have not been specifically briefed on any safety considerations". Meanwhile the Parish says it's not us...

If the plan is more pedestrianised areas for other reasons, fess up and consult properly.

Covid-19 contact tracing campaign

A campaign launched last Thursday by the Government of Jersey to remind pubs, bars and restaurants that they need to record the details of every visitor to their premises.

The campaign is a joint initiative between the Health and Safety Inspectorate (H&SI) and Environmental Health, supported by the States of Jersey Police and the Honorary Police. It aims to reinforce the message that Islanders and businesses must comply with current Covid-19 guidelines in order to stay safe and to safeguard the freedoms that Jersey has managed to achieve.

The Greenhills Hotel voted 11th best Hotel in the UK

The Greenhills Hotel has been voted the 11th best hotel in the UK in TripAdvisor's Travellers' Choice Awards 2020. These annual awards honour hotels that consistently receive outstanding reviews for a range of services including facilities, food & drink, cleanliness and friendliness of staff.

The 11th place finish for The Greenhills is an impressive achievement, as there are thousands of Hotels in the UK listed on TripAdvisor. But perhaps it's no surprise: with its peaceful location within the Green lanes of St Peter, the beautifully decorated and stylish bedrooms, the mouth-watering menu in the AA Rosette Restaurant and the warmest welcome in Jersey.

Having enjoyed a short break staycation here, it is something they richly deserve.

Right, as you were and until the next update, stay safe,

Murray
